DEATH OF THE FATHER OF MRS. FRANK MANNIX

The Republican of Columbus, Wis., of June 23d contains an account of the death of John Tobin, father of Mrs. Frank Mannix, formerly of Tonopah, and now a resident of Denver, who died at the age of 67 years. Deceased was born in County Cork, Ireland, and came to this country when a child, the family locating in the town of Emmett, near Watertown in 1845. He was married to Catherine Kernan in 1857, who passed away in 1857, after which he married Catherine Pickett, who, with seven children, mourn his loss. The family includes John J. Tobin of Montrose, Colo., Mrs. Mary Mannix of Denver, Colo., Madge Tobin and Mrs. W. J. Cook of Chicago, and the Misses Tessie and Margaret Tobin of Columbus.

IMPORTANT DECISION

so weathered that it is barely legible. He did not record his claim until recently. He claims to have done the location work by means of a cut and that the cuts expose a ledge in place. A dike of silicified rhyolite extends in almost a straight line across the little hill northerly from the town of Silver Bow upon which the location monument was placed, up one side, down the other, and for possibly half a mile farther a little south of east. From that dike I have no doubt that samples can be taken showing values in gold and silver, and some of them probably rich. The dike contains a vein of quartz carrying ore of good quality in shoots, the vein being within the dike and having in general the same course, though a rather erratic tendency to shift from side to side or place to place within the dike. Mr. Cook no doubt knew of the vein, for it shows in a cut above his on the hillside. His location cut does not expose the vein at all, but may expose stringers from it, and is parallel to it and a few feet north of it. If the dike containing the veins can itself be considered a ledge, which it may be in a broad application of the term, his cut exposes a ledge, lode or vein in place. But one question, therefore, remains for consideration—the sufficiency of his location. From the road lying east of it about seventy feet distant at its nearest point and from which the whole cut can be seen very plainly, as testified to by one witness who traveled that road often, the so-called location work looks so unlike what a miner expects to see that it is almost ridiculous. It is really a very irregular trench getting but little below the former surface. The plaintiff asserts that it was originally 42 feet long and of sufficient depth and width to represent 240 cubic feet of work. The evidence is very strong that it was originally about 25 feet long; but the conflict is not serious, for accepting the plaintiff's word for the length, Engineer Robbins found it to show less than 190 cubic feet of excavation. For the lowest 26 feet of length his calculations give 127.57 cubic feet. That it is insufficient is obvious at first glance. That Mr. Cook attempted to locate the old Gem claim is true; but all he did in that connection was perfunctory, and his indifference is further shown by his failure to record within the usual ninety days.

"His location is a fair sample of the method some prospectors employ to seek to hold mining ground that may become valuable enough by development in the vicinity to be worth holding on to, and to serve to base a claim upon when the occasion presents itself. That sort of location should receive no consideration from the courts. Fortunately the question of forfeiture does not present itself in this case, so that the strange and almost absurd leniency of the courts on that subject need not be considered. The question here is whether Mr. Cook did what the law requires of him to give him a possessory title to the Black Hawk mining claim; and I find that he did not.

"The Boh claim of the defendants was located on April 16, 1916. No question was raised concerning it except as to the quantity of its location work, which upon examination I found to be exactly as testified to by the defendants and their witnesses, and containing over 300 cubic feet, in addition to which a small shaft was sunk on ore near the location monument, having a volume of about 60 cubic feet, which fact is of value here in that it shows the defendants were not afraid of work at the time they made their location; and their further development of the ground since shows the same spirit."

RECRUITING OFFICER RECEIVES PROMOTION

Recruiting Officer Koyle received his first promotion yesterday, when he was advanced from a private to a corporal. He expects to be advanced to the rank of sergeant within a short time. On this, his second enlistment, Koyle has been in the service only three weeks. Some years ago he was in the service for almost "two hitches," as he describes it, each hitch being three years. When he left the army he was a sergeant major, senior officer for 600 men. In private life Koyle is a civil engineer.

The governor has expressed the determination to keep the gang out of Nevada and will use the full power vested in his office to see that his orders are literally obeyed.

COOL WINDS BRINGING HOPES OF EARLY SHOWERS

The mercury rose steadily all day until 1 o'clock was reached, when the reading was 91. Then a stiff breeze sprang up and the temperature fell until at 2 o'clock the mercury stood at 90 and still falling. Off in the mountains, 30 miles northwest, a heavy rain was falling and the weather observer said there was a good prospect of the moisture reaching Tonopah during the night.

HEAT OF THE SUN.

Its Source of Supply is a Puzzling Problem to Scientists.

Probably the most puzzling problem we have in connection with the sun is to account for its tremendous output of heat, which we are told has varied no more than a few tenths of a degree in 50,000,000 years, the period generally given by geologists for the duration of life upon the earth.

If we accept the theory most generally advanced in the past that the sun was formerly a vast nebula extending at least as far as the planet Neptune and that its heat was maintained by slow contractions, computation shows us that only 25,000,000 times the present output would be maintained from this source—that is, if its heat were supplied by contraction alone it would have lasted only half as long as life has been known to exist upon the earth.

This is plainly impossible, and though contraction undoubtedly supplies part of the solar heat, there must be some other source of supply as well. The discovery of radio-activity in recent years may have much to do with explaining this mystery.

It is interesting to consider that if the sun were composed of coal and its heat were kept up by the process of combustion more than a ton of coal would be required per square foot of surface per hour to supply the present output of heat. The sun would be entirely burned up in 5,000 years if made of coal.—New York Sun.

SENSATIONAL ADVANCE

while in its last published report on May 31, 1917, the holdings were only $9,000,000. The Bank of France held $125,000,000 in silver at the outbreak of the war and today holds only $50,000,000. These nations will all find it necessary to build their silver coinage up to the former holdings.

LIMITATIONS SEEN

"It is foolish to say that silver can ever be used as a medium for relieving paper exchange. The world's annual output of silver is about 225,000,000 ounces, which at 80 cents is a valuation of $180,000,000. This is a small amount in the world's finance today, and rather an unimportant factor when you consider that a whole year is consumed in its creation. Then deduct the great proportion that goes to other than coinage purposes and you have even a smaller factor. India and China will also continue to take their share as in the past."

BUTLER THEATER

"His Father's Son" is a big play written by two big men. In it are two big stars. The play is dramatic; it also is filled with humor. It is a rattling good story, well put together. The situation grabs your interest from the start. A millionaire's son is burning up his father's money. The old gentleman closes the treasury. He tells the youngster to get to work and bets him $6000 he can't hold a $60 a month job for thirty days. Then young Mr. Man starts out in his racing car to seek the job. He gets one as a butler. He falls in love with a pretty girl. He prevents a bogus English lord from committing a big jewel robbery. And he wins the $6000 and the girl. The screen world has no more attractive stars than Lionel Barrymore and Irene Howley, who appear today at the Butler. Mr. Barrymore is a member of the great theatrical family of the Drews and Barrymores and inherits genuine dramatic talent, which he had already demonstrated on the speaking stage before coming to the screen. Also a great treat for the little folks—"Robinson Crusoe," the original story having been read by millions of children, can now be seen in all its interesting details at the popular little playhouse. Tomorrow Mollie King in "The Mystery of the Double Cross," and Irene Fenwick and Owen Moore in "A Girl Like That."
